

RCRA/EPA-Hazardous Waste Management Annual Refresher Course Outline-Online (as per 40 CFR 262.34 & 265.16)

Overview

This training course discusses the definition of a hazardous waste, labeling requirements, storage areas, disposal facilities, and provides exercises for hazardous waste determination. Additional Emergency Response Training may be required for your employees under OSHA, EPA and DOT regulations. This training may be conducted by the employer, providing they have the sufficient training and education, or by an outside training company.

Who should take this course?

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) mandates that individuals who deal with or manage hazardous waste must have an initial training course BEFORE beginning the duties of their job, as well as recurrent training on an annual basis. Employees who should have the training are: Supervisors, Hazardous Waste Generators, Environmental Compliance Professionals, Employees of Transportation, Storage and Disposal Facilities (TSDF's) and people responsible for the transportation of hazardous waste.

Learning Outcomes

The objective of this training is to provide certification (initial or annual) as required by EPA for all employees impacted by this regulation. The student will learn the appropriate regulations for the identification, removal, shipment, and disposal of hazardous waste.
